Pageant Bids Fair to Go Down in History as Leader in Such Affairs.

With more than 51,000 men, women d children, including the President of the United States and other high Government officials pledged to par ticipate, excluding the members of scores of bands, fife and drum corps. the large "unattached" division and the school contingent, Washington's monster preparedness parade on Flag Day bids fair to go down in history as one of the greatest defense demon strations held to date.

Announcement that an invitation was extended today to Charles Evans Hughes, Republican candidate for the Presidency, to march in the pageant augmented the interest in the demonaugmented the interest in the demonstration in many quarters.

Mr. Hughes' secretary was asked if the former Supreme Court Justice intended to march. He answered that the matter had not been formally submitted to Mr. Hughes, and that he could not say whether the former justice would march or no.

Members of the parade committee, however, are hopeful of the invitation being acepted, and the presence of the Republican nominee in the great spectacle in Pennsylvania avenue on Wednesday is not considered improbable.

Taft Cannot March.

Former President William Howard Taft informed the committee that while will be in Washington on Tuesday he will not be able to remain over and march in the pageant because of the urgency of other business.

urgency of other business.

A telegram inviting Col. Theodore Roosevelt to participate in the demonstration has not as yet been answered from Oyster Bay, acording to members of the parade committee.

Chairman William F, Gude, of the parade committee, estimated today that probably 15,000 or 20,000 more persons will be added to the demonstration by the bands, the "unattached" division, which will be made up of individual citizens not members of any organization unit entered in the pageant; and the graded schools contingent. This will bring the number of the marchers close up to the 75,000 which members of the committee predicted about a week ago would take part in the mammoth procession.

Grand Marshal Melvin C. Hazen an-nounced the plan of formation of the parade last night.
